

Our plan for Queensland

The Queensland state election is on Saturday 26 October 2024.

A little more for regular Queenslanders, a little less for big corporations.

Every day it feels like life gets harder, while Labor and the LNP put corporate profits ahead of everyday people. The Greens are running to win up to 10 seats and break apart the two-party system forever.

Real change starts with electing someone who'll fight for you and what you believe in.

Fix the housing crisis

Freeze rents for 2 years, cap rent increases on-going, and give renters a guaranteed right to lease renewal. Build 100,000 well-designed public homes for renters and first home buyers, offered at cheap prices.

Tackle climate change

Since coming to power, Queensland Labor has approved 38 new coal mines, and both Labor and the LNP want to open up 37 more. We'll stop new coal and gas mines, invest in 100% public renewables by 2030 and establish new industries in green manufacturing.

Universal, free healthcare

Create 200 free GP clinics so everyone can see the doctor for free. Clear the elective surgery waiting list and fix emergency departments by properly investing in public hospitals.

Cheaper groceries

Cap the price of 30 basic essentials. Break up the Coles and Woolies duopoly and stop corporate price gouging.

Fully funded and free education

Tackle cost of living for families by making childcare, kindy, public schools & TAFE truly free and well-funded, including public school excursion and laptop costs.

Take back control with public ownership

Labor and the LNP have privatised essential services and key infrastructure like ports, airports, railways & energy. It's time to take back control of our economy with public ownership of essential services. .

Make big corporations pay their fair share

Fund a better life for all Queenslanders by fairly taxing coal & gas, big developers and big banks.
